

To whom it corresponds,

Jiří Herman joined us recently in the department of Urology of Istanbul Medipol University for the elective 2 weeks rotation corresponding to the 4th year of Medicine. Jiří is a student at the Palacký University in the Czech Republic and participated in the ERASMUS program of interchange between Universities.

From the very beginning, Jiří expressed a high interest in this elective rotation driven by his intention to specialize in Urology after obtaining his title of doctor. He joined timely and regularly to the activities of the Department of Urology, including the zoom meetings that took place during the pandemic. He was thrilled by the activity in the OR and discuss details of some of the urological operations, and he was proactive in asking about any condition seen in the outpatient clinic.

We had the opportunity of witnessing his attitude with patients and colleagues. At a personal level, he was respectful and polite in both settings. We have no doubt he has the conditions to become a fine professional and can only highly recommend it for any future post in specialization training of urology.

Yours sincerely
